

CHRISTIE MANSION

The Christie Mansion was the home of biscuit baker William M. Christie of Christie, Brown and Company. Reconstructed c. 1910 for son Robert J. Christie, the Christie Mansion is a beautiful example of late Victorian style set prominently amongst other houses of that era along Queen's Park Crescent in Toronto.

The mansion's exterior features a portecochere and crow-stepped parapet gables. The interior is dominated by the grand spiral staircase (reflected in the new Atrium entrance on Wellesley Street West) that runs from the basement to the third floor, and is capped with a magnificent oculus illuminating through the heart of the mansion.

The main floor function rooms features the original grand hallway, library / study, parlor, ballroom, solarium and dining room, all available for your meetings, special occasions and events.
